1. The story behind the picture

Kathy and Jane from Stapelton High School are on their way home talking about their special education day topic "Overcoming Obstacles". Looking around, Jane points at a chain link fence shouting: "Kathy, that is our obstacle!" Kathy's expression shows bewilderment. "What do you mean, Jane?" Jane smiles: "Here is our obstacle. Let's try getting over it." Kathy starts laughing: "I'm sure our teachers didn't mean climbing fences in deciding about the topic of our education day. Never mind, let's try managing this fence."

The two girls walk towards the fence and luckily there is a small support for their feet. Jane tries getting her foot in between the wire netting and pulls herself up. Kathy is not so sure about this experiment. Even if they got over the fence how would they get back? There was no support on the other side. Jane has made up her mind. She gets rid of her backpack in throwing it over the fence. Then she pulls herself up, puts one foot over, turns it, finds hold in the wire netting, places herself on top of the fence, swings her second leg over and starts climbing down. Kathy is amazed about Jane's adventure, but she can't decide on doing it herself. So overcoming obstacles can separate if someone is left behind.

A good night's sleep

Hello folks, walking to school today I saw lots of class-mates looking very tired and already exhausted though the lessons had not even started yet. As you know, getting a good night's sleep is very important for your mental health including concentration and attentiveness. Maybe I can help increasing both if you follow some advice: First, you should think about your day time routines. Do you practise physical exercises or are you just sitting in front of your technical gadgets not moving your bum? Get up, get out, move and you will notice that your brain clears of all those thoughts which might prevent you not sleeping well. Try to stick to routines. Get up and go to bed at the same time daily.

I know myself that I used to stay awake late because I enjoyed the freedom of the night not being disturbed all the time. But when I went to bed I usually could not fall asleep, because I had overcome my tiredness. Avoiding this, you should go straight to bed when you notice you get tired. It helps you fall asleep straight away. Last not least, don't watch TV late. Nestle down in bed, read a few lines and you will soon find out that a good night's sleep has a positive effect on your physical and mental health. Your school report will show it.
