- Du [D]: Tiffany möchte gerne wissen, was für eine Art freiwilliger Arbeit du hier machst.
- Du [E]: After finishing school, Claudia did not really know what to do next. However, as she had always been interested in environmental protection, she thought that doing a "volunteer year" here on the island would be perfect for her.
- Du [D]: Was für Aufgaben hast du hier auf der Insel?
- Du [E]: Her chief task is to guide tours. What she likes very much is visits by schools because the children are always so enthusiastic. Sometimes she also has to do office work or gardening. That is not so much fun, but those things need to be done too. No job is absolutely perfect.
- Du [D]: Was war denn das aufregendste Erlebnis, das du bisher hattest?

- Du [E]: That was two weeks ago, when some tourists reported a seal baby without its parents on the beach. She immediately grabbed her binoculars and ran off to check on that. Luckily, it was false alarm and the seal's mother picked her baby up.
- Du [E]: According to Claudia, you seem to be quite surprised. She would therefore like to know if there is nothing similar to this in America.
- Du [D]: Nicht genau dasselbe. Aber sie haben so genannte "Peace Corps", bei denen man in weltweiten Projekten für ein Jahr freiwillig mitarbeiten kann. Im vergangenen Jahr ist eine ihrer Freundinnen nach Tansania in Afrika gegangen, um dort Wasserbehälter zu bauen. Was sie ihr von dieser Erfahrung erzählt hat, hat sie tief beeindruckt.
- Du [E]: That indeed sounds quite thrilling, too. She's glad she has met us. She wants to exchange phone numbers and stay in touch.

1. The story behind the picture

At 10 am on Sunday morning 18-year-old Leroy is lying on the couch in the living-room of his family's flat. For the evening before he had invited his best friend Jason, who is only 16, over to his parents' house to have a movie night together. Leroy's parents are both away on business, so he can decide himself when to go to bed. His friend Jason, however, always has to be home by 11:30 pm on Saturdays, which is why he left Leroy's place at about 11:15 pm yesterday. Although Leroy was already a little tired, he nevertheless decided to watch one more movie ... Still dressed in his hoodie shirt and covered by a blanket up to his hip, he is now slowly waking up. With his eyes still closed, he can hear the familiar purring of his cat Charlie. Once he opens his eyes, he will see a glowing TV screen and the remote control lying on the floor right next to the couch.

2. Article for school magazine

Glamour and Glory

My best friend and I really wanted to participate in our school's "coolest classroom competition". And here are the details of how we won it. We motivated our classmates to get involved by telling them that we would throw a cool party with the prize money. Then my friend came up with a great motto: "colour and comfort". We split the class up into two groups. The "colour group" focused on how to paint our walls, and the "comfort group" focused on how to make our chairs more comfortable. After doing some online research about the psychological effects of colours, the "colour group" painted our classroom walls in colours that make people feel cosy, calm and motivated. The "comfort group" collected used cushions and attached them to the seats and backrests of our chairs. Eventually, the jury gave two reasons for awarding the prize to us. We were very well organised in our work, and our motto was more convincing than what the other classes came up with.
